Venice, 7 June – 23 November 2014
Director: Rem Koolhaas

The 14th International Architecture Exhibition titled Fundamentals, directed by Rem Koolhaas and organized by the Biennale di Venezia, chaired by Paolo Baratta, shall be hosted until November 23 at the Giardini della Biennale and the Arsenale.

In addition to guided tours and other traditional services, the Biennale offers guided tours for families with children and teenagers. The spaces of the Giardini and the Arsenale are in fact particularly suitable for family tourism, full of greenery, with the possibility of free rental of buggy and baby carrier, family area (only Arsenale), baby nursery, free cloakroom and infopoints.

The Biennale is always pleased to welcome families among its visitors; for this it strives for both children and adults have the right tools to make the most of their visit. And as it is a time of sharing with their carers, it makes available to them expert guides in children communication trained by the Educational area of the Biennale.

A first proposal of activities are targeted Guided Tours for groups of Families: These are activities that focus on a few selected themes of the of the Exhibition as some fundamental elements of Architecture: door, balcony, staircase, wall ...

During the visits, these elements are introduced and presented starting from impressive examples of great effect, which illustrate their historical development. The visit focuses also on a selection of National Pavilions presenting the theme of modernization of Architecture in their respective countries. The activities are available in 7 languages / reservation is required. Guided tours cost 90 euros for 1 venue, 2 venues 150 euros, entrance tickets not included.

A second proposal for activities are workshops on Sunday: practical art workshops for children and teenagers from 4 years.

Specifically on Sunday afternoon, starting at 15.00, the Biennale organizes activities for families, on request, designed for young visitors which include a visit followed by a practical laboratory.

From the themes of the Exhibition in the Giardini venue the visit will focus on the fundamental elements of Architecture: doors, balconies, elevators and escalators... recounted in their historical paths they will unveil little by little how they reached their current form! The children will meet the various elements of the past or of the future, and then build a little house in the time lab with the technique of little stamps using tempera colors and collage.

For the Arsenale the national Pavilions will become the place where clues and secrets are hidden to bring the boys to discover unexpected surprises of Architecture: the objective of the workshop will be to reflect on the elements that underpin the creation and transformation of the territory by the nature and man, investigating the ABC of geography: play and experiment to build new personal surreal map of Italy and the world!

The workshops are available in Italian and English / reservation is required. Laboratory activities for 1 venue 5 euro per child (free ticket); accompanying parents (tickets for a fee based on the price list).
